Eight to Twelve Agencies Will Be Established in Plan to Aid Residence Owners.

MAY BE PLACED IN RESERVE CITIES

Directors in Conference Today With Formal Meeting to Take Up Organization Problem Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—The two-day-old Home Loan Board already is arranging to get financial aid to home owners. Preliminary conferences among those of the five board members now in the capital continued today, with Franklin W. Fort (Rep.), chairman, planning the next formal meeting tomorrow. Meanwhile, he talked with Nathan Adams (Dem.), banker of Dallas, Tex., and Dr. John Gries of Rosewood, O. (Rep.), economist, about the selection of sites for the eight to 12 banks they will establish.

There was some discussion of the 12 cities where Federal Reserve Banks operate. The fact that these places already are recognized financial centers drew some comment. But that fact alone, it was indicated, would not be the only one considered. Fort expects the other two directors appointed Saturday by President Hoover to be present tomorrow. These are: H. Morton Bodfish of Chicago (Dem.), executive manager of the United States Building and Loan League; and William E. Best of Pittsburgh, Pa. (Rep.), president of the league.

They will consider also the minimum capitalization of each bank, which, under the law, must be $5,000,000. Larger banks are likely to be set up in some places.

The board members hope the initial shares, to be sold at $100 par value, can be distributed without too heavy a draft on the $125,000,000 available for Federal subscription through the Reconstruction Corporation.

NEW PARLEY ON MARKETING OF FARM BOARD'S COTTON

Eugene Meyer to Resume Conference With New York Bankers on Proposal.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Eugene Meyer, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, is expected this week to resume conversations with New York bankers about a plan for the marketing of Farm Board holdings of cotton. It was said today that Meyer had broached a tentative marketing plan last week.

In its present tentative form, the plan would provide that governmental authorities encourage the cotton mills to order cotton for about one year in advance at a price which mill owners would decide would not entail too great risk.

The banks then would be called upon to help finance the plan with the understanding that the governmental agencies would allow ample time for the mills to make payment. This would probably not be done until after the mills had fabricated the cotton into finished goods and had placed them on the market.

they must have turned toward Springfield. After several hours the machine was stopped and the men tied a towel over my eyes and bound my hands tightly behind my back with rope. My feet and legs were also bound and adhesive tape was placed over my mouth.

I was then dragged from the machine into a corn field, where I was left after receiving several parting kicks.

"I do not know how long I lay in the field, but it was hours. I could feel corn stalks all around, and during part of the time it rained. Not being able to get any outcry, I realized that my getting loose depended entirely on my own struggles. I concentrated on getting my hands free, and, after an exhausting struggle, accomplished this. I got the towel off my eyes and removed the tape from my lips. It was dark and after feeling my legs, I wandered around for some time. I came to a dirt road, and later to a railroad right-of-way, which I followed until I saw the lights of a flour mill, which I recognized as being located in Springfield. I then decided to go to the home of my friend, Mr. Lowe, but found no one at home. I think the field where I was was about six miles north of Springfield.

Did Not See Assaults.

Colegrove feels certain that one of the men was James Gammatoni, 35 years old, an unemployed miner who had $5000 savings in the crash of Colegrove's bank. Two years ago Gammatoni fired two shots at Colegrove, both bullets going wild.

Gammatoni was arrested at his home while washing what police believe were blood stains from his automobile. In his house was found Colegrove's wallet containing $26, personal railroad passes, diamond ring, and a list of contributors to the former banker's defense fund. Gammatoni denied having seen the articles before, and asserted that the blood stains were from rabbits he shot.

Arrested with Gammatoni was Amelio Pouzoulot, 32, of Detroit, who also denied knowledge of the kidnapping. Both are held on charges of kidnapping, assault, and robbery.

State's Attorney Grundy today at Taylorville arraigned both suspects and held them to the grand jury under $20,000 bond each.

Grundy announced he would file charges against the two men of kidnapping for ransom, an offense punishable by death in Illinois.

Colegrove is under sentence of three years in prison in connection with the loss of more than $1,000,000 through the failure of his bank. At liberty pending an appeal, he lived alone in a small house in Taylorville.

BECKER HAS CUT 70 OFF PAYROLL SINCE PRIMARY

Dismissals in Secretary of State's Office to Save $9000 a Month—Others May Follow.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Since his defeat in the primary election last Tuesday, Secretary of State Charles U. Becker, lately a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, has begun inflicting within his department the sort of governmental economies he advocated in his unsuccessful campaign for the nomination.

Approximately 70 employees have been dropped from the department payroll in the last few days, it was learned today, and others may be dismissed. The dismissals will cut the department payroll approximately $9000 a month. Earlier in the year Becker was carrying nearly 100 employees on his department payroll. Becker so far has refused to concede his defeat by Lieutenant-Governor E. H. Winter.

Becker was reported by his department to be fishing at a lake near Edina, Mo., and could not be reached for a statement. A list of the discharged employees was not made available in Becker's absence. Chief Clerk R. E. Donaldson referred inquiries for the list to O. C. Steinelinger, motor vehicle registration commissioner, and Steinelinger passed the inquiry right back to Donaldson. It then was referred to Becker.

During the campaign opponents of Becker charged him with extravagance in administration of his department, and charged he was carrying nearly 100 more employees than were necessary, and that many of them were in the field working for Becker's nomination.

Most of the 70 employees being dropped are in the motor vehicle registration division. Donaldson said, and the others are in the remaining divisions of the department. The salaries paid these employees ranged from $90 to $300 a month.

It has been told, 20 of the employees were discharged from the St. Louis branch office of the motor vehicle registration division. Before the primary election the St. Louis office had 57 employees, among them several prominent Republican politicians. A year ago in August, when no campaign was in progress, the St. Louis branch office had 14 employees.

Edith said she had learned Mrs. Berrie swallowed a pill, presumably containing a headache powder, which she habitually carried with her, shortly before her death. The County Attorney also said Berrie told him his wife was jealous and irritable from a long illness and had threatened suicide.

Dr. E. H. Coachman, county health officer, was the first grand jury witness, telling of an analysis made by the State chemist. The child of a brother and sister became ill after attending a picnic in Forest Park Friday evening. A chemical examination of the child's stomach is being made. ## PLAIN TALK NEEDED TO CUT ARMAMENTS, SWANSON SAYS

Senator, Back From Geneva, Thinks Lower Tariffs Best Remedy for Trade Ills.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Some plain talk and improved political conditions in Europe will be necessary, Senator Swanson said today, to bring fulfillment of the promises of reduction of armaments made at the recent Geneva conference.

Swanson, a member of the American delegation and ranking Democrat of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is hopeful about the outlook. He thinks the recent Lausanne agreement virtually abolishing German reparations will go a long way toward helping the European political situation.

He agreed with Senator Borah of Idaho that the world needed an economic conference, but looked upon lower tariffs as the chief method of inspiring resumption of international trade.

"I think conditions in Germany are more favorable than many people believe," he said. "The agreement on reparations and Germany's adherence to the Franco-British agreement of consultation indicates the disposition on the part of Germany to co-operate with Europe. If the pledges and promises of the Geneva conference are fulfilled there will be a very large reduction in armaments. The extent to which these promises will be fulfilled, of course, depends largely on political influences in Europe when the conference resumes and the vigor with which the effort is pushed. I think it will take strong efforts and real plain talk to gain substantial achievement."

SENATOR MOSES PRESENTS 'CHEERFUL REPORT' TO HOOVER

Tells in Two-Hour Talk About New York and Massachusetts Political Conditions.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Senator Moses (Rep.), New Hampshire, after conferring with President Hoover for more than two hours told newspaper men today he had been "able to report cheerfully" about political conditions in New York and Massachusetts.

The President's conference with Moses occupied almost his entire morning after his return from his Rapidan camp, where he spent the Cleveland-James R. Garfield, chairman of the committee which framed the Republican platform, rode with the President from the camp.

It was disclosed in an authoritative White House source that Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the late President, has accepted an invitation to take part in the notification ceremony at the executive mansion next Thursday.

Meanwhile, Representative William E. Hull (Rep.), Illinois, conferred with Walter Newton, the President's secretary in charge of political affairs. Hull said he had reported Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa were safely in the Hoover column and thought all the Midwest agricultural states would be won for the President.

Moses said he "naturally" had discussed with the President his speech of acceptance, now in process of completion. Asked directly what treatment would be made of the prohibition question in that address, Moses smiled and replied: "I asked many questions, all of which were satisfactorily answered."

Newton later talked with Chester Gray, legislative representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation; Cleveland Newton, former Representative from St. Louis, and Rufus Lee of Omaha, Neb. Cleveland Newton said they had informed the President's secretary they felt the political fortunes of Hoover were "moving along nicely" in the Middle West and that there was no doubt of his re-election.

money he had if you needed it?" "Yes."

"Would he die for you?" "Yes."

"Lie for you?" "Bill doesn't lie."

"Die for you?" "He doesn't steal."

"Wouldn't he steal a chicken for you?" The witness laughed.

Hawthorne referred to excerpts from Lancaster's diary, in which he wrote of stealing chickens and rabbits with Clarke for their table.

"Yes," he would do that," she laughed.

"Or a rabbit?" "Yes."

"Or a duck?" "No—yes, we did have ducks once."

The crowd in the courtroom—larger than on any previous day of the trial—laughed at each response.

Mrs. Keith-Miller testified Haden Clarke had a violent temper and frequently was in high rage at his mother and at Peggy Brown, a girl he brought to the house on several occasions.

During a recess she gave way to her emotions outside the courtroom and Lancaster, appearing highly perturbed, motioned to newspaper men. Whatever he planned to say was interrupted by James M. Carson, his chief counsel, who commanded, "Keep your mouth shut."

INQUEST CLEARS MOTORBOAT PILOT IN RIVER DROWNING

Louis Schaefer Loses Life in Meramec After Being Hit by Craft—In Swimming With Brothers.

Louis Schaefer, 34 years old, 1434 Laurel avenue, was drowned at 5 p. m. yesterday in the Meramec River, after he was struck by a motorboat while swimming across the river at Lincoln Beach.

The motorboat, operated by Leo Jaudes, 5200 Murdock avenue, in swinging around trying to pass in back of Schaefer, struck him on the head, inflicting a laceration above the right temple.

Jaudes was exonerated by a coroner's jury, which found that death was due to drowning as a result of Schaefer being struck by the boat.

Louis with two brothers, Joseph and Martin, each swimming a short distance apart, were crossing the river from the shallow beach to the dock, intending to return home. Another brother, Herman H., who had gone to the river with them, was not in the water at the time.

Louis, who was a strong swimmer, was struck by the side or stern of the boat, which was running at moderate speed, about 150 feet from the dock, where the water is deep. There were many swimmers in the water at the time.

None of the brothers witnessed the accident. Martin Schaefer, who reached the dock first, learned that someone had been injured. He swam the water but was unable to see Louis.

With his brothers, Martin swam out to the middle of the river, and they aided in the search for the body, which was brought to the surface after seven minutes by William Tragotto, a member of the Meramec River Red Cross patrol. Efforts to revive Louis with an inhalator failed.

Mrs. Alvora Hortal, 3837 Bowen avenue, a passenger in the boat, testified she saw Schaefer's arm at the side and screamed. At her cry, she said, Jaudes wrenched the boat.

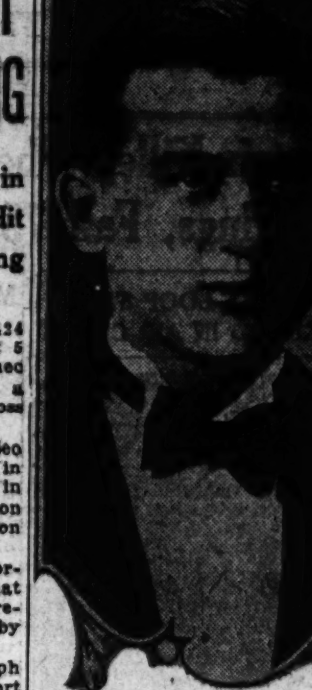

Besides his brothers, Schaefer, who was an unemployed salesman, is survived by his father, Samuel, and two sisters. Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow from the Oxnender funeral establishment, 1449 Washington boulevard, with burial in Chesed-Shalom Cemetery.

ROMJUE LEADS TAYLOR IN RACE FOR CONGRESS

Goed Into 13th Place on Basis of Late Returns,
Count Still Incomplete.

Congressman M. A. Romjue of Macon took thirteenth place in the Democratic list of 11 congressional nominees today, when returns from 3669 precincts placed him 2412 ahead of J. D. Taylor of Keytesville. Romjue had 159,214, and Taylor 158,802. Romjue having gained 18,669 and Taylor only 1872 in the last 156 precincts tabulated. Taylor until yesterday was running ahead not only of Romjue, but of Congressman Williams and Dickinson, who appear likely to be in the final list of nominees.

In the Republican congressional nominating race, Polite Elvins and Sam Clark, running twelfth and thirteenth, were being crowded by John W. Palmer, who has been fourth.

Today's tabulation of 3795 of the State's 4505 precincts showed Elvins, a resident of Clayton and former Congressman, in twelfth place with 115,173; Clark, a Carrollton newspaper publisher, thirteenth with 114,618, and Palmer, a former Sedalia Congressman, fourteenth with 113,783. In the last 156 precincts tabulated, Palmer gained 3727, Clark 2637 and Elvins 2466. Elvins, in this showing, was only 554 votes ahead of Clark, and Clark was 1838 ahead of Palmer. In case of a close vote at the final count it might take the official count to place the twelfth and thirteenth nominees.

In case of a close vote as between the two parties in Missouri in the November election, election of a split congressional ticket, composed of the strongest candidates on both tickets, would be likely, and the low men on both tickets would have a poor chance. A landslide vote for either party might carry its whole congressional ticket through.

The appearing assured of nomination on the congressional tickets are:

Republican—Bradley, Dyer, Niedringhaus, Manlove, Hopkins, Stewart, Bennett, Otto, Davis, Johnson and Miller.

Democratic—Shannon, Cochran, Logier, Cannon, Wood, Claiborne, Duncan, Ruffin, Lee, Williams, Milligan and Dickinson.

Officers will be chosen by the board of directors at a luncheon meeting Thursday. The only general sessions will be the two educational meetings.

View of Acting President.
Ben Allen, Washington, Ind., past president of the Indiana Dry Goods Association and acting president of the American Association, issued a statement preliminary to the opening of the meetings expressing the opinion that "the reign of common sense and hard work has begun."

Merchants are getting back to the viewpoint of pioneer days, Allen said, and "to the day will become brighter for all of us."

IOWA WANTS TO BORROW
$30,000,000 FROM R. F. C.
$20,000,000 to Straighten Out State
Treasury and $10,000,000 for Relief Sought.

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 8.—A loan of $30,000,000 is sought by Iowa from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to take care of problems of its State Treasury.

State Treasurer Ray Johnson and Attorney-General John Fletcher left yesterday for Washington to confer with Finance Corporation officers.

About $15,000,000 is needed to pay outstanding claims against the State sinking fund for public deposits and $2,000,000 would be used for future claims with a like amount to satisfy outstanding anticipatory warrants.

The officials pointed out that the desired loan was not a relief measure, but a matter of refinancing to satisfy immediately 1377 claims against the sinking fund, created to assist governmental units of the State whose funds were tied up in closed banks.

Fletcher said the Iowa situation is serious "because 1000 Iowa school districts have no money to start school with this September due to funds tied up in closed banks."

In addition, Gov. Dan Turner has opened negotiations with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for a loan of as high as $10,000,000 to provide relief for Iowa's

MGR. DEMPSEY'S FREE KITCHEN SERVES 3000 MEALS IN DAY

Sunday Total Is Largest in Six Weeks; Packing Companies Contribute Meat.

More meals were served yesterday at Mgr. Timothy Dempsey's free kitchen at 1209 North Sixth street than on any other day for six weeks. There were 1341 at breakfast and 1659 at dinner, a total of 3000. Last week 15,445 meals were served.

Contributions of meat and vegetables were received in good numbers last week. The meat came from two packing companies and Jefferson Barracks. For this week a donor has promised a whole beef. Since the kitchen was opened last November salaries have totaled only $461.15, Mgr. Dempsey said. The services of the Sisters of Charity and other volunteers have kept down the expense.

It will be the first time any American has ever been either consecrated bishop in St. Peter's or consecrated by the Secretary of State, such ceremonies being rare. The last to be so consecrated was the present Archbishop Giuseppe Pizzardo.

EQUALITY OF OPPORTUNITY

American Railroads Can Be Great Influence In Restoring Normal Conditions

A Statement to the Public by L. W. Baldwin,
President of the Missouri Pacific Lines

AMERICA never has been prosperous when our railroads were suffering and the nation always has prospered when the railroads did. Railroads have suffered terribly in the last three years, losing enormous volumes of traffic and revenues as a result of having to combat, simultaneously, both the economic depression and unregulated, subsidized competition.

Q Hardships to which railroads have been subjected have resulted in their being compelled to contribute, unwillingly, to prevailing distress. Great numbers of employees have been deprived of work because of the decreases in traffic volume, and purchases of the railroads have had to be curtailed drastically because of lack of funds, resulting from decreased revenues.

Q These conditions can be improved measurably if the entire transportation situation is stabilized. In other words, if railroads and other forms of transportation are placed on an equality with regard to regulation and opportunity, the railroads can be depended upon to provide America with the character of transportation service the country must have, at reasonable rates, and the railroads will find it possible to re-employ thousands of workers and again go into the markets for millions of dollars worth of iron and steel products, fuel—both coal and oil—lumber and forest products, and miscellaneous manufactured articles of every character.

Q The restoration of the purchasing power of American railroads can be made the balancing factor in bringing about a turn in present conditions and eventual restoration of normal conditions.

Q The time has come, and it is essential, that all forms of transportation be treated equally, fairly and justly, in the public interest. This will be done when the American people want it done and make their wishes known.

I solicit your co-operation and assistance.

HELD IN FATAL BEATING OF COMMON-LAW WIFE

Man Admits Striking Woman
When He Found Her Drunk.

A Coroner's verdict of homicide was returned today in the death of Mrs. Amelia Ganelli, 33-year-old widow who was beaten Saturday night by her common-law husband, Charles Legnani, 6111 Lansdowne avenue. Legnani explained to police that Mrs. Ganelli attempted to strike him with a chair when he took her to task because "she was drunk, the house was dirty and supper wasn't ready."

The verdict stated she "came to her death in a struggle with Charles Legnani," who was ordered held for the grand jury under $5000 bond.

He told police, they testified at the inquest, that he struck his wife only once and that in self-defense. However, a Coroner's physician reported the cause of death was a brain hemorrhage, the result of a blow, and that both of Mrs. Ganelli's eyes were blackened and there were bruises on her face, neck, arms and abdomen.

Detectives testified Legnani told them he came home from work to find Mrs. Ganelli intoxicated "and their 13-year-old foster son, Peter Pisci, ill."

"I asked her how many men had been there that afternoon and Pete spoke up and said two," the officers quoted Legnani as having told them. "He said they had a lot of drinks and gave Amelia some of whisky. I started to bawl her out about it and she picked up a chair and tried to hit me with it. So I hit her once, in the jaw, and she fell against a table and then to the floor. So I lugged her into the bedroom and laid her on the floor."

"I gave Pete some orange juice. He had a fever and he got worse, so I called in some neighbors and they gave him some medicine. Then I went to bed. Amelia was still on the floor. I woke up in the night and she was gone. So I looked for her and she was lying in the back yard. I put a quilt over her and pretty soon it began to rain so I dragged her into the house. I left her on the floor with the quilt over her."

"At this point" one of the detectives testified, "we asked him if he was sure he had hit Mrs. Ganelli only once. He said, 'Well, I may have kicked her when she was out in the yard.'"

The officers testified that Legnani went on to say "that I woke up and she was still on the floor. I tried to wake her up but she wouldn't wake up. She seemed dead. So I said to the boy, 'Pete, I think your mother's dead.' So I got him dressed and sent him to Sunday school—I gave him a dime for the collection—and I went downtown and went to a show."

On Market street, Legnani bought two cheap dresses and a cheap nightgown for Mrs. Ganelli. Returning, he put the nightgown on her and then told neighbors whom he had called in, "Well I guess you'd better call the police. I guess she's dead."

PULLED FROM AUTO, BEATEN BY FIVE MEN

Former Union Member Attributes East St. Louis Attack to Labor Dispute.

Frederick A. Mennemeyer of Wood River, Ill., was severely beaten this morning in East St. Louis by five men after he left the Phillips Petroleum Co. pipe line plant, two miles south of the city on State Highway No. 1. Mennemeyer attributes the attack to union men, who gathered this morning, 200 in number, at Eighth street and Pigott Avenue, to stop trucks coming from the plant because of a labor dispute.
He was riding with M. L. McManus of Wood River, a salesman, when five men in an automobile followed them to Tenth street and Market Avenue, East St. Louis, pulled them from the car and beat him with revolvers, Mennemeyer said. He was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, suffering from numerous lacerations of the head. McManus was struck several times, but not severely injured.

Mennemeyer, who said he was formerly a member of a boiler-makers' union, declared he was not working at the Phillips plant and had just stopped there to look on. He said he recognized one of his assailants as a member of a boiler-makers' local.

Earlier the driver of a Phillips truck was forced to abandon it by a group of men in cars who followed him to a point on Highway No. 1, south of the city. He is reported to have been injured.

William J. Stuhler, business agent of the East St. Louis Boiler-makers' Union, said the men had assembled to prevent the passage of the Phillips company's trucks, because he "understood" the company intended to proceed with the painting and construction of tanks with non-union labor. He denied that the union men had assaulted anyone.

Shedding Wasteful Avoir

Until the ESSEX TERRAPLANE, every what the size or price, has been a body on a chassis. The power frame and other chassis parts have one unit, the body—often produced factory—in another.

The result has been a duplication and an automobile needlessly less heavy. To offset this, costly ballasted with hundreds of dead and many inexpensive cars have to flimsiness.

In the TERRAPLANE, the body and unified design, a single continuous constructed around a basic frame. of the car is the rigid center-braceless X-membered frame—the frame body, the body the frame. Even instrument panel is a strength to reinforce the whole car by its tion. That is why the new ESSEX low and still have the spacious comfort demands.

Back of the Essex Terraplane is more than 200,000 miles experience and expert advice and most of the automobile industry nearly a quarter-century by advanced engineering and dependable value.

A new car that needs a new word to describe it

So we call it TERRAPLANE

NOTE: This is a long advertisement, yes, but if you want to be informed on an automotive engineering achievement so substantial and far-reaching that it dates the new-type motor car from July 21, 1932, you will find it worth while to read every word.

TERRAPLANE!

That's the new way to get from where you are to where you want to be.

That's the new word to describe what the automobile industry has been groping for these many years in vain.

That's the new physical sensation in motoring needed to meet the down-to-earth demands of these deflated days.

Since the time of the old one-lunged side-winders, keen designers have known it had to come.

They knew in their consciences that roadability is king, and that weighting a chassis down with inert steel to make it rideable was not the answer.

Cycle cars, banties, midgets and the whole discarded lot were attempts to work it out.

But they didn't click, and until now, if you wanted anything but a black-and-blue ride you bought the extra tonnage and paid grimly to have it chugged around.

That was simply because attempts to get a real high power-to-weight ratio meant skimpy building along traditional, outworn lines.

Shedding Wasteful Avoirdupois

Until the ESSEX TERRAPLANE, every car, no matter what the size or price, has been built by perching a body on a chassis. The power-plant, wheels, frame and other chassis parts have been built in one unit, the body—often produced in a separate factory—in another.

The result has been a duplication of materials—and an automobile needlessly high and needlessly heavy. To offset this, costly cars have been ballasted with hundreds of deadweight pounds, and many inexpensive cars have been lightened to flimsiness.

In the TERRAPLANE, the body and chassis are of unified design, a single continuous unit skilfully constructed around a basic frame. The very floor of the car is the rigid centerbrace of the weaverless X-membered frame—the frame reinforces the body, the body the frame. Even the handsome instrument panel is a strength-member serving to reinforce the whole car by its truss construction. That is why the new ESSEX can be so safely low and still have the spaciousness that full comfort demands.

1932 — and it's different now

The new ESSEX TERRAPLANE in this year of 1932 knocks precedent for a row of f.o.b.'s and forecasts for the average man a radically new type of car.

Here certainly is the first combination of feather-weight nimbleness and heavyweight stability and "road sense" which the motor car industry has ever engineered into the same automobile.

With it comes a new form of transportation, smooth and thrilling as flying, yet safe as terra firma, only to be described by a brand new word.

Save for top-speed, and that's only a matter of gear ratio, the stock TERRAPLANE will outperform anything you ever drove—even the highway Pullmans that sell for ten times its price.

HERE IS A CAR WITH GETAWAY like a startled rabbit, that accelerates from 10 to 50 faster than any stock car built, regardless of price, size or number of cylinders;

—A CAR THAT SNUGGLES DOWN on the road and follows its nose with the surefooted steadiness of the best-handling heavy car you ever saw, and yet carries not one pound of weight more than it should;

—A CAR THAT SKIMS UP HILLS with quieter ease and more stuff to spare than any car now available in the market;

—A CAR THAT LACKS NOTHING in head-room, leg-room, shoulder-room;

—A CAR WITH THE HIGHEST PROPULSIVE EFFORT per pound of any production car built in this country or abroad;

—A CAR WITH SO LOW A CENTER OF GRAVITY and so low a total height that it offers safety-and-stability-at-speed in the extreme;

—A CAR WHICH COULD ORIGINATE only in the untrammelled atmosphere of a bold engineering department with the sympathetic encouragement of independent management.

Let's go Terraplaning

You'll never think of this ESSEX TERRAPLANE chiefly as a low-price car, because its low, trim, compact lines proceed from inspired design, not from rule-of-thumb mechanics.

A beauty to the eye it certainly is, but come slip under that wheel and let's go TERRAPLANING.

What a Car! — and the lowest priced Six in America!

$425

and up, f.o.b. Detroit

You won't move a hundred yards before you've caught the idea.

As you touch toe to the treadle and take off you are conscious of a smoothness as of flowing oil.

There's finesse in the action of that full 70-horsepower of six-cylindrical pneumounted power—sweet quiet and velvet ease as well as a wallop.

There's no more vibration—anywhere throughout its speed range—than you find in a cake of ice.

Now you get it: if you've ever cruised the skies in a great airliner you recognize the sensation.

You're not exactly riding and yet you're not flying.

Brother, you're TERRAPLANING! Soaring along the road because your weight sits down in and actually becomes a part of the car.

Not a chatter. Not a jar. Not a bounce. Not a bobble. Just fluid motion as the TERRAPLANE answers—fun to ride and fun to drive.

Hills? You scarcely know they're there.

Curves? You take them in your stride.

TERRAPLANING! The nearest thing to flying possible on wheels!

Come see it! Terraplane! Compare!

The price figures place the ESSEX TERRAPLANE actually right down among and UNDER the former lowest-priced Threes.

But that's a triumph of smart engineering and able manufacture, and not a sacrifice of the things you want.

Did you ever lift an old cane fish-pole after casting with a four-ounce fly-rod?

That's the difference between the TERRAPLANE and the older heavy brethren of the road.

Just give a glance at the performance chart based on tests made by the scientists of Guggenheim School of Aeronautics, New York University.

See what the TERRAPLANE did against the representative finest and costliest cars that American automotive genius has contrived.

That's the story—not to mention the bedrock economy with which the ESSEX does it.

Come on, take a TERRAPLANE ride!

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—The Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., announced yesterday it would discontinue on Aug. 31 the service between Boston and Portland, Me., which has been maintained for 109 years. Discontinuance of the service was attributed by Capt. Eugene E. O'Donnell, president of the line, to "uncontrolled truck competition," and a recent increase in the price of oil.

The Boston-Portland service was started by the S. S. Patent in 1823.

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 8.—Dr. Clyde S. Roath, 55-year-old physician, awaiting a second trial for the killing of Patrolman Luther W. Lindsey, was shot and fatally wounded here yesterday.

Patrolman Jim Lindsey, a brother of the slain officer, was ordered held on a charge of murder by Prosecuting Attorney Carl E. Bailey after Dr. Roath in a dying statement had named him as his assailant. Dr. Roath succumbed in a hospital several hours after he was shot in front of a house where he had been summoned to treat a patient.

Mrs. C. A. Cothran, living next door, told police she heard a disturbance outside and a man say, "You killed my brother and now I'm going to kill you." She then heard a shot but did not see the person who fired it, she said.

Dr. Roath was sentenced to life imprisonment for slaying Luther Lindsey, but won a reversal of the conviction in State Supreme Court. Lindsey was shot a year ago as he sat in his automobile with Mrs. Mary Griffin, a divorcee employed in Dr. Roath's office. Mrs. Griffin was tried as an accomplice in the killing, but was acquitted.

States took the stand and admitted he had thrown the bottle at a Negro playground instructor, following a dispute over a baseball game at Carr Square, as the car left the intersection of Tenth street and Franklin avenue. States was returned to the House of Detention.

TWO AMERICAN TOURISTS Man Who Posed as Army Officer Also Went Away With Daughter of One of Women.

By the Associated Press.

OXFORD, Eng., Aug. 8.—Robert Arthur Cooper, charged by two American women tourists of defrauding them of $31 was sentenced today to five years penal servitude on charges of obtaining money by false pretenses.

Mrs. Annie W. Fisher of Lyndhurst, N. J., and her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Walsh, caused Cooper's arrest last Tuesday. Besides obtaining their money by misrepresentation, they said, Cooper went away with Mrs. Fisher's daughter, Kathleen.

Mrs. Fisher said he had represented himself as a well-to-do army officer employed in the war office and in view of what he said about his financial condition she had consented to an engagement between Cooper and her daughter.

Cables Stockholm Liquidators That Detailed Appraisers' Reports Should Be Awaited.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Samuel Untermyer, representing an independent group of Kreuger & Toll security holders, protested yesterday against a proposed conference at Stockholm to discuss reorganization of the Kreuger industries, on the ground that it was premature.

"In our judgment," he cabled the liquidators at Stockholm, "any such meeting and any reorganization plan promulgated now before detailed accountants' and appraisers' reports have been received, studied and checked by our accountants would be premature, unfortunate and prejudicial to the eventual success of any reorganization."

"We are anxious to co-operate actively and wholeheartedly in the reorganization with open minds and hope so step will meantime be taken and no plan projected or interfered. Considering that American investors are the chief victims we hope these views will prevail."

Amounts Range From 25 Cents to $113 and Total $5457, Dr. Borah of Olney Says.

Dr. Oliver C. Borah, a dentist of Olney, Ill., presented a list of his debts and assets to the Federal Court at East St. Louis Saturday. Among his assets, which he lists as amounting to $17,717 he includes the names of 750 of his customers that he has carried on open account. The amounts due him range from 25 cents to $113, and the total is $5457. Under liabilities are listed, secured claims of $12,050, including a $2275 mortgage on Florida land. Dr. Borah says the land is valued at $10,000. Unsecured claims amount to $14,237. He owns land in Olney and in Tallahassee, Fla., valued at $9375.

An involuntary petition of bankruptcy was filed against him July 30 by three St. Louis dental firms.

Maurice Holtzman, who runs a general merchandise store at 5614 State street, East St. Louis, also filed a voluntary petition. He lists assets at $14,321, of which $12,000 is in first and second mortgages in an apartment house at 4567-69 McMillan avenue, St. Louis, and debts of $13,876.

MESTRES SEEKS RE-ELECTION AS DEMOCRATIC CHAIRMAN

Friends Think He Will Be Renamed in Spite of Strong Opposition.

Joseph J. Mestres, Seventh Ward Committeeman, is a candidate for re-election as chairman of the Democratic City Committee, in the face of determined opposition. His friends think he will be re-elected, although a faction of the committee claims it has 40 of the 56 votes pledged for Dewey S. Godfrey, Seventeenth Ward Committeeman, for the chairmanship. One of Mestres' supporters said the other side was "away off on their figures."

James J. Fitzsimmons, Eighth Ward Committeeman, also is opposed for re-election as treasurer, by Godfrey's followers. Fitzsimmons said today: "I'm not a candidate for anything. If they want that job they can have it. There's nothing in it but grief and hard work."

Mestres, chairman of the committee for the last 12 years, is clerk in the court of Justice of the Peace Edward O. Rice, 1731A Chouteau avenue. Fitzsimmons, treasurer for four years, was secretary for several years previously.

13 New World M And 25 Record Games Estab

By Alan Gould.

Associated Press Sports Editor
 LOS ANGELES, Aug. 8.—To the swarthy bl Argentine, Juan Carlos Zabala, winner of the ch tion with a record-breaking performance, and p umphs of America's fast-stepping, high-flying bo chief honors of the Olympic track and field cham

While the forces of the United states were crowning their team triumph yesterday with amazing flashes of relay speed, adding four new world records to the dizzy whirl in the Olympic Stadium, Zabala was plodding the city streets, wearing down his rivals with machine-like strides that carried him strongly to the finish in the new Olympic record time of 2 hours, 31 minutes 38 seconds, for the route of 26 miles 385 yards. The victory of the 29-year-old Argentine, whose swift pace broke the hearts of a half dozen favorites, carried him home 200 yards ahead of Sam Ferris, British veteran. A Finlander, another Briton, two Japanese and an American, were next at the line of finish. This race capped the climax of eight days of athletic competition unparalleled in world history. There is many an Olympic battle still to be fought along a rapidly widening front, with California's crew engaged in the defense of American eight-oared honors, the Yankee boxers facing brisk skirmishes and U. S. swimmers challenged already by Japan's national young aquatic stars, but it will be a long time before the thrills, the astounding records, the arguments and the official "boners" of the track and field championships are forgotten. There has never been a combined athletic show for men and women like it. They thought much of the "kick" was extracted from the peerless Paavo Nurmi was tashed from the games, two days before they started. But performances from the outset not only were so startling as to make about 50,000 spectators forget all about the great Finn during the week, but sufficiently good as well to knock the last of Nurmi's Olympic marks from the record lists. What Paavo might have done yesterday in the marathon is something else, a subject that may be used for further debate, but Nurmi at his very best would have had his hands full trying to head off Zabala. Nurmi throughout the week sat in the stands while his native Finlander's stars were being handed their biggest setbacks in Olympic competition since the war, watching a Poleander, Kucinski, take away the 10,000-meter honors, seeing "Jarring Jim" Bausch, an American, surpass Finland's favored all-around stars in a world record distance performance, and an Italian, Becchi, put Finland's champion and the rest of the world's milers to rout in the classic 1500. ## ST. LOUIS OPEN GOLF TOURNAMENT WILL BE REVIVED, SEPT. 23

TOMMY ARMOUR TO PLAY; LOCAL GOLFERS BEAT HAGEN, JURADO

By W. J. McGowan.

Tommy Armour, Detroit professional, will defend his St. Louis open golf championship, which he won at Sunset Hill Country Club in 1926, in the 1932 open which will be held at Meadow Brook Golf Club and Tavern, Sept. 23, 24 and 25.

This year's event will carry a prize list of $1500 as compared to the $10,000 which was offered two years ago, according to the announcement by officials of Meadow Brook which is promoting and financing the tournament.

The play will be 72 holes, 18 in the first day, 18 in the second, with the final 36 holes to be contested by the 64 low scorers and ties.

First prize will be $1000; second $500; third $250; fourth $150; fifth $100. The next nine will receive $50 each, while $50 will be awarded for the lowest individual round during the three days' play.

Armour was one of the first to enter and another outstanding player who has signified his intention of competing is Denmore Shute, Lima, O., professional who was runner-up to Tom Creavy in the National Professional tournament last year.

Harry Cooper, Canadian Open title holder and Al Watrous, Michigan professional also have entered.

Officials of the Professionals' Association in Chicago have been asked to co-operate in securing the entries of leading players. Walter Hagen and Jose Jurado, Argentine star, said while they were here yesterday that they thought it would be impossible for them to return to play.

Meadow Brook, old Midland Valley, was admitted to membership in the St. Louis District Association this year after some opposition based on the fact that it is not strictly a private golf club because the social activities are open to the public. However, it was ruled that so far as the golf club was concerned it met the requirements for membership in the association.

Officials of the association as well as those of the Eastern, Missouri, Professional Association are co-operating with Meadow Brook in the promotion of the tournament, and a meeting is scheduled to be held at the club tomorrow night to perfect plans.

Guldahl and Schwartz Win From International Aces.

Walter Hagen, Western open champion, and Jose Jurado, Argentine golf star, are on their way to Michigan today for three weeks fishing after having been on a barnstorming tour through the East and Middle West for the past two months. They finished their trip here yesterday, losing a match to Bill Schwartz, Meadow Brook professional, and Ralph Guldahl, St. Louis Country Club, at Meadow Brook, 3 and 2, before a gallery of more than 1000 persons.

Hagen complained after the match that he was so badly over-matched that the sight of a golf ball pained him and he would be glad to get away from the game for a while; but there was no appearance of a stalemate during one string of six birdies, which he put together during the match.

Walter started his march at the eighth hole where he scored a decent and was one under par on each of the next five holes. And he barely missed an eagle at the thirteenth where his putt for a three on the par five hole rimmed the cup.

In the meantime, however, the eleventh together with Hagen and Jurado while everyone except Jurado was one under par at the twelfth. Schwartz matched the sub-par score at the thirteenth, while everyone got a par at the fourteenth.

Schwartz laid his second shot dead for a birdie at the fifteenth, so did Guldahl and they went two when both Hagen and Jurado got par.

The match wound up on the sixteenth green with both Guldahl and Schwartz getting par three on the visitous four.

They played out the next two holes for scores and Schwartz wound up with a 73 and Jurado with a 71. As Hagen picked up the second hole it was merely guess-work to compute his medal.

For Better, or Worse?

WE HAVE with us today the man who did more to change the national game of baseball than any other single individual—Babe Ruth. The Babe is not long for the major league world—as a player. The surprise, though, is that once transported to his bulky frame about the field with amazing speed, have lost some of his elasticity. His muscles no longer stand the strain of a 184-game season. The good old eye is finding the ball with less regularity. Father Time is piling up the handicap of years on Ruth.

The Babe, who is now 35 and playing his nineteenth big league season, probably has a couple of perhaps more years of usefulness in the major league.

His mere presence on the bench as a sort of high explosive to be thrown into the trenches in a pinch, would make him valuable to any club. But his finish as a regular can hardly be distant.

But when the BABE RUTH, quits the diamond where his mighty deeds so often have brought the onlookers to their feet, history will write him down as the boy who made baseball change everything but its circuits. Here are some of the national sports.

By popularizing the home run he changed major league batting from the choke bat style to the swing-from-the-heels wallop.

He changed the balance of power from pitching to batting. He compelled an entire change in field strategy and sent back to oblivion the old method of playing for one run.

He even forced the officials at last to leave the makeup of the official baseball.

He uplifted the Payroll. Not many individuals have left such an impression on the national game.

Abner Doubleday, who originated the ground work of the game, is last year's Babe. Charley Comiskey, who introduced many of the scientific points of play that shaped up the early game, did his stuff when the game was still in a formative stage.

John Johnson did splendid work in regulating the play, in putting over the foul-trick rule, in cleaning up the grand stand and field and in other regulatory features.

But none of the above put as much "kick" into the public interest side of the game as the Bambino.

MRS. MOODY NOT TO DEFEND U. S. SINGLES TITLE

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8.—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, tennis champion, and her husband, Frederick Moody, San Francisco broker, plan to spend several months in Paris, relatives here said today.

Mrs. Moody's father, Dr. C. A. Wills, Berkeley, stated his daughter had informed him she would probably remain in Paris three or four months.

Moody's mother, Mrs. F. S. Moody of San Francisco, said her son and daughter-in-law were "having so much fun in Paris" that they planned to remain there until late in the fall.

The stay in Paris will prevent Mrs. Moody from defending her United States tennis championship.

ager Street may decide to try Pepper as a pitcher at third base. Why not? He was an infielder when we had him in the minors. Then Joe Medwick of Houston was also a third baseman, and if he wants to return to the infield he may be the man.

"Then there are two very excellent infielders in the minors who probably will be at our training camp. They are Charley Wilson of Rochester and Burgess Whitehead of Columbus. Some players tell me Whitehead can't throw. They are wrong. He has a fine arm. He is fast, he has baseball brains, a fine aggressive spirit, and the only thing he lacks is power. He won't knock down any fence. He is strong enough in that respect he is a disappointment. But I still hope he will put on weight and develop into a more powerful hitter. But he could play satisfactory major league baseball, right now."

"Wilson can play third, short, or second, and may solve our problem at third base. I truly believe that if we had brought up Wilson as soon as Adams was hurt he would have enabled us to go on to a pennant. But we didn't know Adams was lost for the season. That was a mistake we made."

Rickey said that Ray Pepper, "Count" Fucnell, and Medwick were the best prospects among the minor league outfielders. Pepper was up for a time early in the season, but was sent back to Rochester. According to Rickey, his chief handicap is timidity—that he can't play up to his natural ability when the wories of making good in a new league take his attention off the business of playing baseball.

Fucnell, who was with the Cardinals in the fall of 1930, has improved as a fielder, and will be for next season, Rickey begged to be excused from discussing that subject as concerning the Cardinals.

"However," he countered, "if you ask me that question about the 15 other players, I'll answer with a very emphatic 'yes.' I will even go so far as to state that the major leagues will have to adopt $5000 as the top salary for a player in his first appearance in the big leagues."

Rogers Hornsby's Invictus.

"When I am manager I run the team," says Hornsby.—News Item.

OUT of the night that covers me, I think whatever gods may be, That I can give and take it, too.

In the fall clutch of circumstance I give no quarter—none expect; Under the bludgeoning of chance My head is bloody but erect.

I've found that in this vale of tears Dame Fortune is a fickle jade, And yet the menace of the jeers, Fools and shall find me unafraid.

What matter though I get the gate, And Fortune knocks me for a goal? I am the master of my fate, I am the Captain of my soul.

About the time Rogers Hornsby was deciding to get a new first baseman, the Cubs decided to get a new manager and picked Charley Grimm.

22 LOST AT SEA; SPANISH FISHING BOAT CAPSIZES

Six Are Caught in Own
Nets and Drowned — 18
Cling to Keel but Fatigue
Overcomes 15.

By the Associated Press.

VIGO, Spain, Aug. 8.—Twenty-two fishermen were lost in the sea when the fishing motor boat Azana capsized in a strong northerly gale off Cangas Demorazo several days ago. It was learned with the return of only two survivors to the port yesterday.

The survivors, Manuel Castro Torren, 27 years old, and Vicente Sota Perol, 21, were picked up by the Norwegian steamer Kertiedre. They were exhausted by cold and fatigue after 53 hours in the water.

Villagers of Cangas Demorazo, having put faith in the report that all were saved, were seized with grief and anguish when they learned the truth.

Six of the fishermen were caught in nets with the overture of the boat and drowned immediately. The other 16 clung to the keel of the boat and dropped off one at a time as fatigue overtook them.

The coxswain, Antonio Iglesias, was rescued from the water by the Kertiedre, but in a moment of despair he jumped overboard and perished.

STABBED IN FIGHT OVER PAYING FOR FOOD

Customer Wounded, and Waiter, Who Says He Was Beaten, Is Held.

Noah Farnum, 35 years old, a fineman, was stabbed in the back in an altercation over payment of a check for food at Joe Garavelli's restaurant, DeBartoli and De- Giverville avenues, last night.

Police are holding Willis Claiborne, Negro waiter, who says he was beaten by Farnum and the latter's two companions.

Farnum and his friends ordered $2.30 worth of food from Thomas Reuter, another waiter, and subsequently started to drive away without paying, according to Claiborne's statement. The waiter said he jumped on the running board of the machine, which Reuter was unable to reach, and was struck in the face by Farnum, who stopped the car.

A scuffle in the street followed, and a white man came to the waiter's assistance. A moment later Farnum cried out that he had been stabbed. Claiborne denied stabbing Farnum, and no weapon was found on him.

Farnum, who resides at 4083 Shennandoah avenue, is in serious condition at city hospital.

NEGRO AMONG GUESTS INVITED TO WHITE HOUSE LUNCHEON

Charles Isaacs Is Mississippi Member of Committee to Notify Hoover of Nomination.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—All members of the Hoover Notification Committee, including Charles Isaacs of Natchez, Miss., a Negro, have been invited to a buffet luncheon at the White House next Thursday.

The luncheon has been planned as a prelude to ceremonies Thursday night at which President Hoover formally will be notified of his renomination by the Republican national convention.

Invitations have been sent to all members of the Notification Committee, officers and members of the Republican National Committee and members of the District of Columbia Reception Committee.

Isaacs has been designated as the Mississippi member of the Notification Committee. He also was a delegate to the Republican convention.

It was explained informally at the White House that the invitation was purely routine, Isaacs having been included along with the other members of the Notification Committee.

The last time a Negro has been a White House guest was on June 13, 1929. At that time Mrs. Hoover entertained Mrs. Oscar de Priest, wife of the Illinois Negro Representative, at a tea given to women of the Congressional set. About 40 women were present.

Former West Virginia Patrolman
Asked to be Locked Up;
Held on Bond.

By the Associated Press.
WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 8.—J. D. Hacker, discharged from the West Virginia State police after he was disarmed by a man identified as a robber, was arrested Saturday after he had alleged to have attacked the robber in the Ohio County jail.

Hacker and W. C. Johnson were discharged from the State Police service a month ago. Harry J. Fink of Cleveland, O., is under arrest charged with being the robber who took their weapons from them.

Matthew Altmyer, county jailer, said Hacker appeared at the jail early yesterday and asked to be locked up "because I am afraid of myself." He was admitted. Altmyer said he then ran to Fink's cell, seized Fink through the bars and shook and struck him.

Hacker was arrested and placed in a cell until he obtained $500 bond for his release. He is charged with being drunk and disorderly.

Fink is being held for grand jury action. He was alleged to have been fleeing from a cigar store robbery when he encountered Hacker and Johnson. He was arrested in Dayton, O., several days later.

After presenting the awards, the prosecutor continued to Houston, where the remainder of the $1000 reward offered by Greene County for the capture of the slayers was distributed between Houston police and the owner of the house in which the Young brothers were located.

Mrs. Gaddy determined the identity of the slayers after an automobile wreck at Streetman, and notified Missouri officers. She is chief operator of the Streetman telephone exchange.

By the Associated Press.
ASUNCION, Paraguay, Aug. 8.—Prospects for peace in the dispute between Paraguay and Bolivia over the Gran Chaco appeared more remote today following the shooting down of a Bolivian airplane over the Paraguayan lines on the frontier.

The plane was shot down as it reconnoitered the Paraguayan forts, 10 miles east of Fort Chanar, in the middle of the swamps of Estero Patino. The two Bolivian aviators were captured.

As a result of the incident, the Associated Press was informed, Paraguay is preparing to send a new note to the neutral Central and South American nations, and to the United States.

It was officially announced today that Bolivian troops had recaptured the Paraguayan Fort Carlos Antonio Lopez, which lies about 100 miles west of the point where the Apa River empties into the Paraguay. This fort, which lies across a little lake in the forest from the Bolivian Fort Mariscal Santa Cruz Nuevo, was first taken by the Bolivians on June 15 and was recaptured a month later by the Paraguayans.

THE VALUE OF CONFIDENCE

LOOKING forward confidently is an American tradition. And now hard work and intelligent readjustments are speeding the day when this confidence will be rewarded. America is getting her house in order—slowly, possibly, but surely.

The First National Bank, with its 75 years' experience, through good times and bad times, is particularly well fitted to meet the peculiar banking needs of these changing times. The public's confidence in the sound management of this bank has made it one of America's great banks—the largest bank in Saint Louis. The First National Bank recognizes an obligation to this community—to provide a constantly increasing measure of service and the most complete banking facilities for its customers.

Eldorado, Ill., After 2-Year Fight
With Federal Court Still Refuses
To Grant Waterworks FranchiseJudge Lindley Contemplates Discharging Receiver and Leaving Town Without Service.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
ELDORADO, Ill., Aug. 8.—An extraordinary situation has been created here by the refusal of the citizens to vote a franchise to a corporation which was organized two years ago to take over the city waterworks under foreclosure.

One of the latest developments is an implied threat by United States District Judge Lindley at Danville to discharge the Federal receiver who is now operating the water plant and leave the people without service. Following this the city petitioned the Court to discharge the receiver and a hearing is tentatively set for Aug. 16 at Danville.

In a letter dated June 25, Judge Lindley wrote to the attorney for the city: "My inclination is to discharge the receiver and leave these parties without service. I have endeavored to help them without any co-operation and have only maintained the receivership as a matter of grace to try to help them against themselves."

Twice in the last two years the citizens have voted down a 10-year franchise and the present city administration was elected on an anti-franchise platform.

Behind the popular opposition to the franchise is a story of amazing financing by promoters, who built the waterworks for the city, resulting in a debt today of $633,000 on a plant which city officials say could be duplicated for $100,000 to $150,000.

The plant was constructed in 1920 and turned over to the city. It was paid for with water fund certificates issued under an old Illinois statute providing for municipal ownership of waterworks.

The promoters received from the city $250,000 of these certificates, the amount now said to have been far in excess of the cost of the plant. The certificates were widely sold to the public in Wisconsin, through a Madison investment house.

The law made the certificates a lien on the plant and water rents, but not on the city's general revenue. This meant that the principal was to be paid out of income from water rates and the city eventually was to own the plant free of debt.

To secure payment of the interest and principal the city gave a deed of trust on the plant to a Chicago bank being the trustee.

Provisions on Default.
The statute provided that in case of default on the certificates the plant should be sold under foreclosure, the successful bidder to be the one agreeing to discharge the debt and operate the plant, receiving the income, for the least number of years not exceeding 50. At the end of the term named in the successful bid, or after 50 years, the plant was to be turned back to the city in as good condition as when received except for normal wear.

Under the decree of foreclosure as handed down by Judge Lindley the plant was to be turned back to the city in as good condition as when received except for normal wear.

There is a strong feeling among city officials that the foreclosure sale to the certificates should have followed the State statute and that as to the hydrant rental debt the remedy was in mandamus against the city to levy taxes to pay it. The city officials feel, however, that they are unable to appeal from Judge Lindley's decision because of the expense and a low treasury, as it would cost about $40,000 for a certified copy of the record and other necessary expenses.

The city, which then had a population of around 6000, was told how easily the certificates could be paid off out of income. It soon found, however, that the interest burden was too great. When interest was first defaulted, the investment house which sold the certificates to the public paid the coupons and received in return from the city additional refunding certificates. This continued until the principal of certificates outstanding amounted to $633,000.

Coal Mining Community.
Eldorado is in a coal mining community and the depression in the coal industry hit it long before the general depression came. It lost population and its tax revenues dwindled and water rents became less.

Now, under receivership, the minimum water rate, which all users must pay, has been increased from $1 to $2 a month. This falls heavily upon many small home owners and workers who are either unemployed or earning small wages. The quantity rate also was increased, the first step from 50 cents to 75 cents a 1000 gallons, and for other steps in proportion, except for the extremely large commercial users who were given a reduction by order of the Court.

One reason the people oppose a franchise is their fear that these high rates, or higher, will be fastened upon them indefinitely. After receiving its franchise the company could go to the Illinois Commerce Commission to have its rates fixed on the basis of "present fair value." Attorneys for the new company indicated in a hearing before Judge Lindley that they intended to ask for a rate schedule virtually the same as now, charged by the receiver and for a valuation of about $300,000.

At a hearing at Danville, Sept. 12, 1930, Judge Lindley explained his views to a number of Eldorado citizens who were called as witnesses. At that time the first franchise election had failed and the Court sought from witnesses their objections to the franchise.

FRANCE FOR PEACE WITH

Lebrun Speaks at Dedication of Huge Osmuary Near Verdun.

By the Associated Press.
VERDUN, France, Aug. 8.—President Albert Lebrun dedicated a huge osmuary at Douaumont yesterday and was made an honorary citizen of Verdun, which he helped to defend in war time.

He was accompanied by representatives of the Allies and associated Powers, including Philippe Roy, Canadian Minister to France, Percy S. Straus, delegate of the American Committee for the Osmuary, spoke at the ceremony.

President Lebrun stressed France's desire for peace after the lessons of Verdun. "The sacrifices to which she has consented since the war for good understanding among the peoples and economic restoration of the world are the best proof of her desire for peace," the President said, "and she will persevere in it, but let nobody ask her to abandon the care of her security so long as the spirit of peace is not everywhere present and so long as the world has not established bases of general security in which all the nations will find an assured refuge."

DECLARES WORLD IN DANGER
UNLESS PEACE IS ESTABLISHED

Lord Blanesborough, Head of International Law Association, Speaks at Conference.

By the Associated Press.
OXFORD, England, Aug. 8.—Lord Blanesborough, president of the International Law Association, warned today of danger to the present world order unless peace is definitely established. He addressed eminent lawyers from all parts of the world.

"Blood will be upon our own heads," he said, "if we accept the complacent conclusion that world order as we know it will go on unchecked, or perhaps a little maimed, if the possibility of elimination of the recurrence of war is dismissed as an empty dream."

"Unless a new world order for peace is definitely established, let too much to say that the Western world order may pass into the limbo of the past."

Sir John Simon, the Foreign Secretary, said: "World peace is the only hope for the survival of civilization."

Commissioner. You understand that?"
Witness: "I think I do."
The Court: "Do you think this position is such that eventually any franchise will be approved?"

Witness: "I think with the present attitude of the people it would be impossible to have any kind of a franchise approved at the present time."

The Court: "Even though this Court found it necessary to discharge the receiver and cut off the water and let the plant lie idle?"
Witness: "I don't think that would alter the case at all."

New Plant Discussed.
It is after this hearing and in spite of the admonitions of Judge Lindley that the franchise was voted down the second time.

After the recent letter of Judge Lindley in which he again spoke of discharging the receiver and leaving the city without water service, the administration filed its petition for discharge of the receiver.

Officials took the view it was time to find just how serious Judge Lindley was when he talked of discharging the city of water. They are said to be prepared to seek in a higher court a writ against shutting off the water, on the ground that to deprive the city of its water supply would deprive the lives and health of its citizens.

The possibility of building a new municipal waterworks and abandoning the plant for which the certificate holders are trying to get a franchise is being discussed. It is thought an adequate plant could be built for $100,000, and that the savings to the people would more than pay the interest and sinking fund on a bond issue.

VANDALS WRECK
HISTORIC PLAQUE
IN FRENCH CITYBas-Relief, Commemorative of Union of Brittany and France, Destroyed by Explosion.

By the Associated Press.
RENNES, France, Aug. 8.—A small group of Breton autonomists are thought to have caused an explosion yesterday which destroyed a great bas-relief here symbolizing the union of Brittany with France in 1532. The bas-relief was in a niche of the City Hall.

The explosion, proceeding a celebration of the 400th anniversary of the union at Vannes, in which Premier Herriot participated, disfigured one of the most picturesque central squares in the French provinces.

Two alleged sympathizers of the autonomists were questioned by police. The explosion shattered windows within a radius of 500 yards. The bomb apparently was placed with the utmost secrecy, for police headquarters is just across the way and several patrolmen were lodged nearby.

The autonomists for a long time have been discontented with the fête which the late President Doumer was to have attended and which Premier Herriot inaugurated at Rennes in Doumer's stead.

Their attitude was that the Bretons should not invite French officials to celebrate the Duchy's surrender of its sovereignty. Many decided to boycott the ceremonies. A similar boycotting marked the unveiling of the destroyed monument itself in 1911. Local patriots objected to its depiction of Anne of Brittany, successively the wife of King Charles VIII and Louis XII, kneeling and offering her crown to France.

Brittany, Once Ruled by English
Dukes; Later Independent.
Brittany, on the northwest peninsula of France, was conquered by Henry II of England in 1158. He made his son, Geoffrey, Duke of Brittany in 1169. Geoffrey soon became the ally of the King of France against his father. In the thirteenth century Brittany was a vassal state of France.

In 1491 the Duchess Anne of Brittany married Charles VIII of France, and the two regions were again united. Eight years later, when Anne married Louis XII, the successor of Charles, the independence of Brittany was recognized. Treaties made in 1532 incorporated Brittany with France, this date being the occasion of yesterday's celebration.

During the French revolution Brittany was loyal to the Bourbons. Bands of insurgent peasants fought as guerrillas for the King. In 1793 Napoleon suppressed an uprising with 30,000 soldiers, but disturbances continued until as late as 1832.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 8.—Senator Borah, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in a telegram read at the Newport Summer Conference yesterday, opposed extension of the international moratorium on debt revision except under "a program which gives reasonable assurance the American taxpayer will receive better than the debts."

"I do not favor further moratorium," Borah said. "It would not materially help conditions. Readjustment on a basis of capacity to pay would be almost equally ineffective. Neither or both would open markets or start trade."

"But if the post war program, as reparations, debts, armaments, restoration of gold standard, stabilization of silver for the Orient, can be accepted, then I am willing to see the debt used in any way to make the program a success."

"In other words, readjustment or cancellation should be made to depend upon a program which gives reasonable assurance that the American taxpayer will receive better than the debts."

Richard Washburn Child, former United States Ambassador to Italy, and founder of the conference, criticized the foreign policies of the State Department.

"We need something besides the great American missionary mind," he said. "It is all right to meddle when it does not harm, but it is a bad thing to meddle."

Eldon H. Hooker, chairman of the American Defense Society, charged that "this country is being victimized by the greatest shell game in history" and demanded that "the lid be lifted from the pro-revision (of debts) propaganda, in a direct fight there with a group of National Socialists."

Seven civilians and three policemen were wounded by bullets in a fight that followed a rifle club festival at Froendenberg, Westphalia. By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Aug. 8.—Political leaders began to gather in Berlin today for conferences to determine the position of Adolf Hitler and his National Socialists in the new Government. Chancellor von Papen returned yesterday from a brief holiday.

Hitler, Gen. Curt von Schleicher, Minister of Defense; former Chancellor Bruening and Alfred Hugenberg, Nationalist leader, are to arrive in a day or two.

President von Hindenburg will return from his summer estate at Neudeck on Constitution day, Aug. 11.

The National Socialists seem more ready than ever to enter the Government, even though von Hindenburg insists that the Cabinet must not be dominated by parties.

Bruening's Centrists, who heretofore have been opposed to participation in the Government by the National Socialists, now seem inclined to insist that Hitler's promises it can fulfill.

Political rioting continued over the week-end, resulting in one killing and several cases of injury. Kurt Kotzan, leader of the Reichsbanner near to Loetzen, was shot dead in a street fight there with a group of National Socialists.

As to the War's Origin.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I READ, with much interest, your editorial, "The Last Week," with reference to the book, "Once a Grand Duke," by Alexander Romanoff, in which you come to the conclusion that the World War was not "made in Germany."

There is still another passage in this book which throws a light on the widely debated question of the war guilt. It reads as follows:

He (the czar) admitted to me that he could have avoided the war had he been willing to commit an act of treachery against Serbia and France, but that was not in his character. One-sided and fatal as the Russo-French alliance was, Russia's signature had to be honored.

This passage admits but one conclusion, namely, that Russia was used by her allies to start the war, and that France and Serbia, and no doubt, Great Britain, were the parties really responsible for the outbreak of the great catastrophe, intent upon taking advantage of the Sarajevo murder for the attainment of their respective political ends. It certainly came in handy to use the powerful Russian army of 15,000,000 men as a steam roller to crush the German foe once for all.

It is just about time that the grave injustice done Germany at Versailles by stamping her the only culprit of the war, be righted, and also that the historical text books for the use of our schools be corrected accordingly. The conscience of the world demands it.

That Long Ballot.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THE Democratic Ballot I voted in the primary was just a year long and listed 144 candidates for 19 offices.

How can any voter, intelligent or otherwise, find his way through such a mass? Former President Taft was certainly right in his wonderment, not that democracy functioned poorly, but that it functioned at all.

Common sense must dictate the need for a short ballot if the will of the people is to be made effective. OBSERVER.

Work vs. Charity.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I NOTE the Committee of 71 appointed by the Mayor is going to make a survey and endeavor to find ways and means of giving work to our vast army of unemployed.

It is indeed refreshing to note that at last it has dawned upon those in authority and those in a position to do something about the situation, that charity is not practical to relieve unemployment distress. It is costly, wasteful, kills morale, and in most cases is obnoxious to both the giver and the receiver. Charity has a proper place to relieve distress in cases where there is no bread winner or where the bread winner is incapacitated, but it is a fallacy where the bread winner is able bodied and willing to work.

The remarkable thing about the whole affair is that it took until now for our governmental and industrial leaders even to consider the six-hour day and five-day week as a motive power to put everybody to work, although it has been advocated by your paper and others over a long period of time.

Seeks Unusual Epitaphs.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I AM making a study of old and curious epitaphs to be found in grave yards throughout the United States. I am sure that in and around your city there are many cemeteries that would yield a wealth of material for my study.

If any of your readers are in a position to copy these inscriptions for me, I should be very grateful. I wish to have the following information concerning each epitaph: Name, dates of birth and death, and location of cemetery.

Illinois Fight for Honest Government.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THE campaign in Illinois is more than a campaign. It is a crusade for honest and efficient government. If the government of William Hale Thompson is thrust upon the State, then the voters should be denied the voting franchise and a dictatorship set up. In Judge Henry Horner the Democrats have a candidate of whom all intelligent, courageous voters can well be proud, but it will take a sensational upheaval to place him in the Governor's chair. The question of whether enough Republicans can hurdle partisan lines is at the best a doubtful one, but they will be held accountable for any inefficiencies that are bound to arise.

PUBLIC UTILITY REGULATION FLAWS

In forcing the resignation of Public Service Commissioner W. B. D. Alney, Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania has written another chapter in the history of public utility regulation in the United States. Commissioner Alney was not only chairman of the Pennsylvania commission, but he was also the most prominent and widely known public service commissioner in the country, having held office longer than any other commissioner and having served, at various times, as the vice-president and as the president of the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners.

The Governor had charged the Commissioner with corruption surpassing even that for which the United States Senate refused to seat Frank L. Smith of Illinois. He accused Alney of accepting $150,000 in gratuities from Thomas E. Mitten, Philadelphia, rapid traction company magnate, and produced documentary evidence to show that the Commissioner had permitted other utility officials to pay the cost of a trip to Europe and to foot a hospital bill of more than $3000. He asserted that Mr. Alney, within five years, had deposited $155,000 in banks, while serving on a salary of $10,500 a year. And all of these transactions had taken place at times when the utilities in question had important rate cases pending before the commission. The chairman's resignation in face of a Senate investigation of these charges is taken by the Governor as a virtual admission of guilt.

The Alney case serves again to demonstrate the weakness of state utility regulation in the United States. The work of the commissions, in general, is hampered by legislative restrictions and judicial intervention. The technical staffs provided are, in most cases, inadequate and often incompetent. Appropriations are usually too small properly to support the work. The term of office of commissioners is short; tenure of office uncertain. Salaries, in most states, are too low to attract able men to the posts. In 20 states, the positions are filled by election. In the others, appointments too frequently are given as a reward for political service. The utilities are generally able to exert pressure to obtain the appointment and the retention as commissioner of men who are friendly to them. The occasional commissioner who manifests a genuine zeal for the public interest is often taken over into an attractive utility job. And at other times it appears that there is recourse to the more direct method of bribery.

In this situation it is to be found an explanation of the fact that public utility rates, during a period when all prices have fallen precipitately to lower ground, have remained safely on their high plateau. Certainly the costs of the utilities must have declined substantially in the last three years of falling prices. Why have their rates not followed? The answer must be that regulation does not regulate. Gov. Pinchot has well stated the moral of the case. "The people of the United States," he said, "prefer utility regulation rather than public ownership. But regulation cannot survive if the people lose confidence in it." If the public utility corporations resort to influence and corruption to prevent the adjustment of rates to a fairer level, they will thereby speed the coming of public ownership and operation into the utility field.

"CIVIC VIRTUE" IN NEW YORK.

A decade after it was put there, New York again is discussing the statue in City Hall Park. The figure is that of an unclad man, standing on a couple of mermaids. Since the title of the sculpture is "Civic Virtue," it is possible for the close student of symbolism to deduce that this represents the sturdy citizen spurning underfoot the tempting sirens on his progress to perfection. It is now proposed, in the process of re-landscaping the park, to remove the statue, and its defenders in the long controversy are vociferously trying to keep it there. Aside from the artistic or symbolic merits or demerits of the piece, or the view of the feminists who see in it a slur upon womanhood, there remain ample reasons for retaining the effigy. Since the Seabury Committee found civic virtue a minus quantity in the City Hall, New York obviously should have a memorial to the departed.

ONE-HALF OF ONE PER CENT.

It is commonly supposed that the famous definition of intoxicating liquor as that containing more than one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol was concocted by Wayne B. Wheeler, or some other Anti-Saloon League potentate. Not so. It was the brewers themselves who were responsible for it, according to one of our operatives who has been nose-diving into the dusty tomes of the nineteenth century.

In 1883, it appears, the Government placed an excise tax against beer, without specifying its alcoholic content. The usual alcoholic content of beer at that time was about 3 1/4 or 4 per cent. When malt liquor, with a somewhat lower content, was held free from the tax, the brewers complained that such tax-free beverage was in unfair competition with beer. Asked what percentage of alcohol made beer intoxicating, they gave it as one-half of 1 per cent. Congress thereupon made the tax apply to all liquors with a higher alcoholic content.

Many of the states which went dry before national prohibition accepted that percentage as the standard, though some drew the line at 2 per cent and still others cautiously barred all beverages containing the slightest trace of alcohol. If the next session of Congress carries out the Democratic plank for immediate modification of the Volstead Act and legalizes beer of 3 to 3 1/2 per cent, the Supreme Court will be called upon to settle the long-mooted question as to what percentage of alcohol may be considered intoxicating. In any event, history absolves the Anti-Saloon League of at least one of the many indictments brought against it.

PLAIDS IN THE SKY.

Now that the Republicans have appointed their Eastern and Western managers, the campaign may be said to be under way. These high-sounding titles for the next three months will distinguish the names of Senators Carey of Wyoming and Hebert of Rhode Island. If the slightest doubt had existed as to which group is in control of the G. O. P. high councils, it would now be dispelled.

As standpatners, these Senators make the Sphinx look like the unsteadfast of insurgents. Carey, a long time dry, who recently joined the resubmission crowd, voted against the Costigan-La Follette bill, against relief for cities, against the war-time income tax rates, and helped place tariff items in the revenue bill. All that may be said about him may be said for the Eastern generalissimo. All that and more. Senator Hebert was one of the seven who voted against the lame-duck amendment and was one of the backers of the sales tax. As a practitioner of reaction, the director of operations on the Eastern front stands in the upper crust along with Jim Watson and Moses of "wild jackass" fame. Apparently, the G. O. P. will make no attempt to fight the battle under false colors. East and West, the flags of reaction are fluttering to the summer breeze.

THE REACTIONARIES FACE THE VOTERS.

If the Republican "old guard" in the Senate is not minus a few members when the Congress elected in November convenes it will not be because the senatorial calendar did not conspire against them. Put to the inconvenience of facing the voters in this presidential year of our discontent are practically all of the leaders of the standpat group. Nor is there one whose re-election is a foregone conclusion.

Let us begin on the Pacific coast and work East. First, there is Wesley L. Jones of Washington, veteran supporter of prohibition and author of the "five and 10 law," who recently was forced to haul in his oars, when the Washington State Republican convention came out for repeal. Sentiment in the salmon country and the lumber camps seems to be that Senator Jones did not haul in soon enough.

In California, Samuel Morgan Shortridge, sales tax advocate, another member of the Senate's dry bloc, is in hot water. A colorless Senator, he finds himself out of step with opinion in his State, and reports are that even if he is renominated, Hiram Johnson's lack of enthusiasm for the Hoover ticket may place California in the Democratic column, as it did in 1918, when Charles Evans Hughes was defeated.

Reed Smoot is the Rocky Mountain region "regular" who is up. News which filters in from around the Great Salt Lake is that not in his 30 years as a Senator has the going been any rockier than it is now. He led the fight for the fatal tariff bill and the ill-fated sales tax, acts which cannot easily be overlooked even in Utah. That Utah is not hidebound in its Republicanism is shown by the fact that Smoot's colleague in the Senate is a Democrat as is the present Governor of the State.

Majority Leader Jim Watson of Indiana is another standpatner who is facing the fight of his political life. With his own party in its State platform demanding resubmission of the prohibition question, Senator Watson's long dry record is doing him no good these days. Moreover, since Paul V. McNutt, popular dean of the Indiana University law school and former commander of the American Legion, is heading the State Democratic ticket, it would not be surprising if Indiana should return to the Democratic path it knew in the days of Thomas R. Marshall and Samuel M. Ralston.

Last, but not least, because our inventory has been taken from West to East, is George Higgins Moses of New Hampshire. How much of a job he has on his hands is indicated by the fact that some other Republican Senator was assigned as Eastern Republican manager this year. Senator Moses has all he can do to keep New Hampshire in line. Last year a Democrat was elected one of the State's two Congressmen, notwithstanding Senator Moses' efforts to the contrary. Idleness in the mill towns seriously threatens the man who not long ago felt called on to retract his famous "sons of wild jackass" outburst.

Jones, Shortridge, Smoot, Watson and Moses—supporters of the status quo, opponents of progressive legislation, hidebound partisans. That they face the voters this year is fortunate. They deserve to take the test when the fire burns hot. Missouri can only regret that Roscoe Copkling Patterson, who stands with them in the Senate, is not forced to stand with them in the election.

Right here in sweltering August Charlie Becker simply can't believe it's Winter.

IN BEHALF OF A BEAUTIFUL NAME.

It is no slight to the first President to suggest that it would have been better not to rename the Shenandoah National Forest for George Washington. Memorials, bridges, cities, towns and counties named for Washington abound throughout the country. A renamed forest adds nothing to the sum total of honor done him. On the other hand, to remove the name Shenandoah from that beautiful 100-mile stretch of Virginia oak, chestnut and hickory takes a name of historical and romantic interest of exceedingly melodious sound. No more pleasingly named section comes to mind. Its syllables fall on the ear like brook waters coursing over smooth-worn pebbles. To say Shenandoah is to see the waving grain of that rich valley and the hardwood trees reaching from the meadows to the summits of the mountains as far as vision carries. The change in name would never have been made with Washington alive. As a Virginian who loved the beauties of his State, he would have preserved every opportunity to say Shenandoah.

Mr. Ricky picks the Cardinals to win the pennant in 1933. They have already won the 1932 diving championship.

DEFLATION IN THE UNIVERSITIES.

Colleges and universities were not unlike industry and government during the years of so-called prosperity. They expanded to sizes unknown in history. Three departments blossomed where one grew before and departments were subdivided into divisions. Unless the professor in charge could report an increased number of projects each year, calling for a larger item in the budget, it was a sign his branch of knowledge was standing still, and so the race went on. Spiraling upward like the holding companies, instructors were added so new courses might appear in the catalogue, so a larger appropriation might be sought the next year.

One of the branches of university administration which reached full glory in those years was the office of the dean of men. Beginning modestly, it grew after the manner of a government bureau and in its heyday, on many a campus, required a dean, a couple of assistant deans and a bevy of assistants to the dean. Occupying an extensive suite of offices, this staff proceeded to care for the college student with unflinching watchfulness. Nothing he did went unnoticed or unrecorded. Dean Thomas Arzle Clark, who died recently at Urbana, led the way, and his setup at the University of Illinois was widely copied. Now, reduced appropriations and smaller budgets are forcing the elimination of non-essentials. All that may be said about the office of the dean of men is hard hit. Few there will be aside from aspiring assistant deans who will mourn its decline.

THE STRAIN IS BEGINNING TO TELL!

Plight of the White Collar Worker

Although holding aloof in past from co-operation with farmers and manual laborers, great group of white-collar workers has much in common with them; its members earn low incomes, even in good times; many have lost jobs, investments and homes in depression; speaker urges them to unite for social and economic reforms.

From an Address by Paul H. Douglas, Professor of Industrial Relations, University of Chicago, Before Convention of the League for Independent Political Action.

TAKE IT that we of the League for Independent Political Action represent predominantly the white-collared class. Our members are in the main teachers, doctors, lawyers, ministers, social workers, engineers, accountants, insurance agents and clerks. These classes are not only necessary for the functioning of this society, but, with some slight shifting of emphasis, they would be needed in any society.

Together with the farmers and the manual workers, we form the real America. Along with these two other groups, we have a stake in its government. In the past, the political progress of this country has been retarded not only because the manual workers have ignored the farmers and the farmers have ignored the manual workers, but also because both have been indifferent to and have been slighted by the white-collar classes. If we are to make real progress, all three classes must move together, and our political program must be broad enough to permit this.

Let me emphasize the numerical importance of our group. Some of the followers of Karl Marx at times seem to claim that the processes of economic development are creating only two classes in society, the small group of owners and the overwhelming majority of manual workers. But this view totally fails to recognize the enormous growth in the numbers of our class during the last few decades.

According to the census of 1930, there were in that year over 17,500,000 persons engaged in trade, public service, professional service, domestic and personal service, and in the telegraph and telephone industry. This was approximately a million more than the total number of manual workers employed in manufacturing, coal mining, the building trades and transportation, and approximately 7,000,000 more than the total number engaged in agriculture, forestry and fishing. We may claim, therefore, that we are now on the whole the largest class in the nation.

No group can really take political power over the active opposition of the white-collar workers. Under these conditions, it behooves the manual workers to lose whatever contempt they may have for those who work in white collars, and instead, actively seek our support on a common program destined to help both groups and the farmers as well.

The question then presents itself whether the white-collar folk should or will join in such an alliance, and if so, upon what terms. Let us be frank in confessing that in Europe the men of our occupations have tended predominantly to go Fascist rather than to seek a union with the socialist manual workers. Hitler's strength is primarily derived from tradesmen, clerks and professional workers who see in his movement a means of breaking up the big stores and giving them better jobs in the government bureaucracy. In Italy, the vital form of Fascism stems from much the same group, while in England, it was this class which in 1932 largely broke the general strike and last year returned the National Government to power by such an overwhelming majority.

With the predilections and the emotional

The Fruits of Prohibition

Glenn Frank in Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

A WHILE ago I revisited a little Missouri village I knew in my boyhood. Contrasting my memory of it as a boy with my vision of it in 1932, I was impressed by the fact that the village drunkard had disappeared, but that the drinking village had taken his place. And this I submit is a picture in miniature of the American nation.

Whether we like to admit it or not, we have nation-wide nullification of our prohibition legislation. Of course, we can sit righteously and assert that as a people we are free from the charge of taking blood money from taxes on the liquor traffic, save as now and then we snare a bootlegger. But what is the alternative? I submit that the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution has today become the Magna Carta of the underworld.

If prohibition drastically reduced drinking, if it protected youth, if it advanced temperance among all classes, if it made for increasing law and order, every self-respecting American would have to be behind it. The brutal truth is that it does not. And to say this does not lessen the danger desire of those who say it to see all objects of prohibition reached. Can it be assumed that Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia and John Grier Hibben of Princeton are out to plunge this nation into an orgy of drunkenness? Obviously not.

To me it is incredible that the intelligence of America cannot devise a more workable plan for the control and restriction of drinking—a plan that will hamper rather than help the underworld, a plan that will save America from its present character-destroying cry of insanity and evasion, a plan that will actually promote instead of imperil temperance, a plan that will relieve rather than hamper Federal finances.

Surely America is not so bankrupt of leadership but that there are men in both the Republican and Democratic parties big enough and brainy enough to make one thing very clear to this nation and to its people that their disillusionment with prohibition is not prompted by a desire to make the nation weaker, but by a desire to find and to put into operation a plan that will actually promote temperance, decency and civilized order.

Some income when we have lost our jobs through no fault of our own, and when we are unable to find work, though diligent seeking to obtain it.

Furthermore, for those who as engineers, economists or thinkers, believe that we are ways in which industry and society, could be better organized to promote more effectively the happiness of the community, we wish a society where men can think and speak and organize freely on such matters without brutal economic pressure being exerted upon them. Such freedom does not exist today, and it is in part because of this fact that our society is in the plight it is in.

The depression has revealed to those of us in the middle class who were able to make small savings that in a startling change of cases these funds were not invested with the integrity which most of our numbers had assumed that the banking and financial fraternity possessed. Not only have a myriad of banks collapsed as a result of unwise investments, but we have found that supposedly eminent bankers have betrayed upon the public some of the cases which were concealed in fraud and others upon which the most elementary prudence was not exercised.

MRS. HAMMAR DIES, RED CROSS CHAIRMAN

Funeral Services Tomorrow at 10 A. M. at Home 7 Hortense Place.

Funeral services for Mrs. Frank Hammar will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at her residence, 7 Hortense place. Burial will take place in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Mrs. Hammar, chairman of St. Louis Chapter of the Red Cross and a member of the Central National Committee, died yesterday at her home. She was 57 years old. Her husband, a retired manufacturer, survives.

She was taken ill a month ago, but continued to direct the governing work and papers which needed her signature were presented to her each day until about a week ago when her condition became critical.

She became interested in the work of the Red Cross in the early days of the World War and in October, 1914, organized the Red Cross Women's Relief Committee in St. Louis to prepare surgical dressings and clothing for war refugees.

Active in Red Cross Work. The St. Louis Chapter of the Red Cross as it exists today was organized at a meeting held in her home in January, 1917, a few months before the United States entered the war. She became its chairman and served until 1922, when she resigned to devote herself to her husband, who had retired from business. She consented, however, to election as vice-chairman in 1925 and remained in that office until 1928 when she was again named chairman.

The scope of the Women's Relief Committee, expanded enormously under Mrs. Hammar's direction as the war progressed. When it was organized she obtained quarters in the Railway Exchange Building, then recently completed, and about 250 women, volunteers and workers recruited from among the needy of the city, were engaged in making Red Cross supplies there.

Out of it grew the St. Louis chapter of the Red Cross and the annual report of that organization for 1918, the last year of the war, showed that nearly 10,000,000 articles made by 64,000 St. Louis women, had been shipped to Europe during the year. The membership had grown from less than 1000 to 355,000, nearly half the population of the city.

A hospital unit had been trained and sent abroad, 32,000 women had knitted sweaters and socks for the troops, 13,000 had been engaged in making surgical dressings, a canteen had been established at Union Station and served more than 200,000 soldiers. In addition, the chapter had assisted nearly 8000 families whose wage earners had gone to the war.

On National Committee. When the War Council which had controlled the American Red Cross during the war was disbanded and the Central National Committee took charge, Mrs. Hammar was the only woman among the 15 who were named to that body. She continued to hold that office until her death.

She went to Geneva after the war to attend a world conference of Red Cross officials and was one of two women in the American delegation. In recognition of her services to the Red Cross President von Hindenburg of Germany two years ago conferred upon her the Order of the German Red Cross. Last year she was among the 10 St. Louis women honored for outstanding

Mrs. Hammar, chairman of St. Louis Chapter of the Red Cross and a member of the Central National Committee, the governing body of the American Red Cross, died yesterday at her home. She was 57 years old. Her husband, a retired manufacturer, survives.

She was taken ill a month ago, but continued to direct the activities of the chapter. Reports of its work and papers which needed her signature were presented to her each day until about a week ago when her condition became critical.

She became its chairman and served until 1922, when she resigned to devote herself to her husband, who had retired from business. She consented, however, to election as vice-chairman in 1925 and remained in that office until 1928 when she was again named chairman.

The scope of the Women's Relief Committee expanded enormously under Mrs. Hammar's direction as the war progressed. When it was organized she obtained quarters in the Railway Exchange Building, then recently completed, and about 200 women, volunteers and workers recruited from among the needy of the city, were engaged in making Red Cross supplies there.

Out of it grew the St. Louis chapter of the Red Cross and the annual report of that organization for 1918, the last year of the war, showed that nearly 10,000,000 articles made by 64,000 St. Louis women, had been shipped to Europe during the year. The membership had grown from less than 1000 to 358,000, nearly half the population of the city.

A hospital unit had been trained and sent abroad, 32,000 women had been engaged in making surgical dressings, a canteen had been established at Union Station and served more than 200,000 soldiers. In addition, the chapter had assisted nearly 8000 families whose wage earners had gone to the war.

On National Committee.

When the War Council which had controlled the American Red Cross during the war was disbanded and the Central National Committee took charge, Mrs. Hammar was the only woman among the 100 who were named to that body. She continued to hold that office until her death.

She went to Geneva after the war to attend a world conference of Red Cross officials and was one of two women in the American delegation.

In recognition of her services to the Red Cross President von Hindenburg of Germany two years ago named her to the Order of the German Red Cross. Last year she was among the 10 St. Louis women honored for outstanding

DR. C. W. WALLACE DIES, SHAKESPEARE EXPERT

Native of Missouri Wrote Several Volumes Based on Original Research.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., Aug. 8. —Dr. Charles Wallace, noted Shakespearean authority, a native of Missouri, died at his home here yesterday, aged 67.

While serving as an assistant professor in the University of Nebraska, Wallace spent his summers in England, and with the help of his wife, made an exhaustive study of records pertaining to the life of William Shakespeare.

He examined, with Mrs. Wallace's assistance, an estimated number of more than 5,000,000 original records of the Elizabethan era, chiefly in the Public Records Office in London. From these he drew the conclusion that Shakespeare was best known to his own time as an actor-manager and a business man, an investor and stockholder in money-making enterprises.

The Baconians, who held that Lord Bacon was the real author of the plays bearing Shakespeare's name, welcomed Wallace's discoveries as supporting their theory. Dr. Wallace himself, however, did not take the side of the Baconians.

He wrote books on "London Theater of Shakespeare's Time," "Shakespeare and His London Associates," "New Light on Shakespeare," and "The Poet and William Shakespeare," the last-named published in 1915. From 1919 he was professor of English dramatic literature in the University of Nebraska. To get funds for further research, Dr. Wallace in 1917 went to the Texas oil fields, and was so successful that he was enabled to take extended leaves of absence for his later work abroad, and for lecture tours.

In this country and England, turning of Shakespearean subjects was that the traditional site of the Shakespeare's Globe Theater, the later location of a brewery in Southwark, London, was incorrect, and that the actual site was on the other side of Park street from the brewery premises. This announcement came just before the unveiling of a table by Sir Herbert Tree and others, at the brewery location, as the sponsors deemed it unwise to interfere with the accepted tradition.

Dr. Wallace's early home was in Hopkins, Nodaway County, Mo. He was a founder and fellow of the Society of Genealogists, and honorary life member of the New York Shakespeare Society. The British edition of "Who's Who," in an extended notice, says that Dr. Wallace was "one of the principal producers of petroleum in Texas, U. S. A., since 1919, the income to be used in establishing a $5,000,000 foundation for research."

The nature of the proposed research was shown by the statement that Dr. Wallace was engaged in "the study of man and his ideals as the basis of history and his future progress and forms of government."
